The Choice Group is proud to offer PEERS® Curriculum training for young adults. Developed by UCLA, this evidence-based approach offers young adults with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) and other disabilities who are motivated to make friends but who have difficulty with social skills, an opportunity to participate in a 16-week skills training.

Classes center around instruction and supports which teach social skills. role-play demonstrations, behavioral rehearsal activities, and homework all help promote generalization of the skills learned in the young adult's home, community, and workplace. Classes typically meet during a weekday evening, and last for 90 minutes.
